President Tells Congress What Legislation is Urgent at This Session.

Anti-Trust Law Amendment Must be Enacted.

HOPES FOR CURRENCY BILL.

Washington, March 25.—President Roosevelt today sent the following message to congress concerning legislation urgent at this session:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: I call your attention to certain measures as to which I think there should be action by the congress before the close of the present session. There is ample time for their consideration. As regards most if not all of the matters, bills have been introduced into one or the other of the two houses, and it is not too much to hope that action will be taken one way or the other on these bills at the present session. In my message at the opening of the present session, and, indeed, in various messages to previous congresses, I have repeatedly suggested action on most of these.

Child labor should be prohibited throughout the nation. At least a model child-labor bill should be passed for the District of Columbia. It is unfortunate that in the one place solely dependent upon congress for its legislation there should be no law whatever to protect children by forbidding or regulating their labor.

I renew my recommendation for the immediate re-enactment of an employers' liability law, drawn to conform to the recent decision of the supreme court. Within the limits indicated by the court, the law should be made thorough and comprehensive, and the protection it affords should embrace every class of employee to which the power of the congress can extend.

In addition to a liability law protecting the employees of common carriers, the government should show its good faith by enacting a further law giving compensation to its own employees for injury or death incurred in its service. It is a reproach to us as a nation that in both federal and state legislation we have afforded less protection to public and private employees than any industrial country in the world.

I also urge that action be taken along the line of the recommendations I have already made concerning injunctions in labor disputes. No temporary restraining order should be issued by any court without notice, and the petition for a permanent injunction upon which such temporary restraining order has been issued should be heard by the court issuing the same within a reasonable time, say, not to exceed a week or thereabouts from the date when the order was issued. It is worth considering whether it would not give greater popular confidence in the impartiality of sentences for contempt if it was required that the issue should be decided by another judge than the one issuing the injunction, except where the contempt is committed in the presence of the court, or in other cases of urgency.

I again call attention to the urgent need of amending the interstate commerce law and especially the anti-trust law along the lines indicated in my last message. The interstate commerce law should be amended so as to give railroads the right to make tariff agreements, subject to these agreements being approved by the interstate commerce commission and published in all of their details. The commission should also be given the power to make public and to pass upon the issuance of all securities hereafter issued by railroads doing an interstate commerce business.

A law should be passed providing in effect that when a federal court determines to place a common carrier or other public utility concern under the control of a receivership, the attorney-general should have the right to nominate at least one of the re-

The auto ran in front of the car and was knocked about ten feet, but no serious damage was done. Mrs. Baker was not injured in the least. The auto was taken to the shop for repairs.

FIRE CAPTAINS ARE INSPECTING ALL BUILDINGS IN CITY AS TO CONDITIONS

So That They Will Know How to Proceed in Fighting Fires in Any District.

All the business houses in the city will be inspected by the captains of the fire companies, and reports made on the condition of the buildings and suggestions as to how the fire should be fought should an alarm be given. Captain John Slaughter, of station No. 3, is working on his territory at present, but in another week he will finish, and Captain Joe Collins, of Central station, will begin the work of inspecting in the business district. Each report will contain the name of the occupant and owner of the building, how it is wired, and the amount of explosives in the building.

Every night the reports are handed in to Fire Chief James Wood, who has four copies made and one is given to each captain of the four stations. Each captain reads over the reports of the other districts, and with a little study every captain in the city has a working knowledge of every business house in the city and how to fight the fire. All the firemen are welcome to read the reports. W. J. MacPherson, city electrical inspector, reads over the reports and if any of the buildings are noted in bad condition he visits the business house and inspects the wiring. The system of inspection reports is followed in the large cities, and is an advantage to Paducah's good fire department.

Among the emperor's guests is Captain Von Reuber-Pashwitz, formerly German naval attaché at Washington, now adjutant to his majesty. In the belief that modern Greek is the language of Corfu the captain spent some time in learning this tongue. When he discovered his error he took up the study of Italian.

CHIEF WOOD'S ESCAPE

Fire Chief James Wood had a narrow escape from having his head cracked open yesterday afternoon in front of the car barns at Fourteenth street and Broadway. Chief Wood was pulling hot soldering irons up to the top of a telegraph pole for a workman who was doing some repair work. The man on the pole let one of the irons drop and it hit the chief on top of the head, cutting a gash about three inches long. Dr. Horace Rivers had to take several stitches to close the wound. Chief Wood's hat protected his head. The iron fell about 25 feet and weighs about one and a half pounds.

EFFECT ON FOREIGN POLICY

(Staff Correspondence.)

Washington, D. C., March 25.—Peace, when long continued in any country, has always operated against a strong national spirit. In the United States the absence of any exterior condition calling for united and harmonious national exertions, has resulted in a heterogeneous state of public opinion that makes the nation peculiarly uncertain in its foreign policy.

A strong national spirit depends upon some overshadowing question which unites all the citizenship into a common cause. But no such question confronts or has confronted the United States of recent years and the effect has been to divide its citizens into an infinite variety of sects, organizations and movements each following resolutely its own course and each esteeming the other to be its mortal enemy. Labor is at daggers' points with capital; producers are at war with manufacturers and consumers; individualism opposes socialism, and anarchy opposes both; while innumerable other distinctions between citizens have arisen, to divide our national house against itself and to consequently weaken the nation for a vigorous national policy.

So sharp have become these differences between great bodies of American citizens, that should a war come upon the country which labor thought had been precipitated by capital for its selfish interests, the bitter relations between them would make such a war extremely hazardous through a lack of united effort. While if labor

Rhodes Scholar Drowned.

Oxford, England, March 25.—Ralph C. Many, a Rhodes scholar from New Orleans, La., at Oxford, was washed off the rocks and drowned at Port Isaac, Cornwall.

Ralph C. Many secured his appointment to Oxford in 1905. He was a student at Queens. A peculiar coincidence is the fact that A. K. Road, 1904 Rhodes scholarship from Louisiana, died in March, 1906, from meningitis.

THE JOINER CHILDREN

Walter Joiner, who has been desperately ill at the Home of the Friendless, is steadily improving and his recovery is assured. He and his twin brother, John, will be given a good home in the country together as soon as Walter is quite well. The boys are 14 years of age. For the two girls next in age, Ida, 10 years old, and Ollie, 8 years, good homes have been secured in the city. It is probable that one will be adopted by a family who have no children. This will leave only two of the Joiner family at the Home. The children are quite interested in their prospective new homes, and especially attending school. None of them has ever seen inside a school room.

BOARD OF HEALTH DESIRES TO FILL UP ALL OLD WELLS

The board of health at the meeting yesterday afternoon decided to ask for legislation, permitting the employment of four sanitary inspectors to complete the spring city cleaning within three weeks, and for authority to fill up dangerous wells in the city. City refuse and contaminated water drop into and percolate into the wells and doctors consider them the most prevalent source of typhoid fever in existence. In nearly all cities wells are filled up, and it is desired here before the extremely warm weather sets in. During this high water it is possible to get refuse into the river channel, but when the water subsides the flats will be too muddy for the passage of wagons to the river, so the health department desires to hurry up the work.

HARD TO SUIT.

New York, March 25.—The Better Times association, incorporated, established offices here today, preparing to assume the task of restoring business to its highest levels. In literature which soon will be sent out, President Roosevelt, Taft and Bryan are objected to as presidential candidates, because prosperity and politics go hand in hand. Roosevelt is objected to because of his egotism and strenuousness; Taft because he is Roosevelt's appointee Bryan because of his "isms." President Henry King says that several hundred million postal cards will be mailed out in a short time.

ANOTHER SUBMITS IN POLICE COURT IN BAWDY CASES

Fannie Hart confessed to conducting a bawdy house and selling liquor without a license, and was this morning fined $25 in each case in police court. The cases of Mollie Nief, of 900 Kentucky avenue, on both charges, were continued until March 30. She is represented by Attorney Hal Corbett. Mollie Nief was one of the women designated by the circuit court in injunction against operating bawdy houses at certain numbers, and probably will fight the case.

The order in circuit court abating nuisances along Kentucky avenue was made April 15, 1906, but was not effective until December 1, 1906, when it was to be enforced, time being given to enable the women to seek other locations or dispose of their property. According to the police, Annie Cox, Mollie Grooms and Mollie Nief are the only ones that did not vacate, and they continue to make their habitation at the places named in the injunction, which specifically provides that they shall not be used as places of prostitution while under their "occupation or control."

Ella Howe, who pleaded guilty and was fined, occupies a different house from any of those named in the order. She was forbidden to run a resort at 920 and moved around on Ninth street adjoining the Chandler saloon.

Alta Rogers, who was fined yesterday, occupies the house at 1018, which Lucile Agnew was forbidden to run. This house was divided and made into two apartments.

The Cox and Redman place has according to a sign in front, been run as a boarding and lodging house.

Deputy United States Marshal, Accompanied by Two Soldiers Serve Summons on Lyon County Citizens to Appear Before Marshall Jury.

Judge William Reed Reconvenes Body at Benton Today to Investigate Raid on Birmingham, When John Scruggs Was Killed by Night Riders.

According to reports from "Between the Rivers" forty night riders, the nucleus of a band of 200 formed near Kuttawa last night for the purpose of riding into Benton today to make a demonstration before the grand jury that is investigating the raid on Birmingham, Marshall county, when John Scruggs, the aged colored man, was killed and six others were wounded.

Elwood Neel, deputy United States marshal, summoned ten men of Lyon county, between the Cumberland and Tennessee rivers, supposed to be members of the night rider band. Two of the list: Byron Lady, whose whereabouts are unknown, and Will Black, who was in Birmingham, were not found.

Those summoned are Oscar Bonner, John Prescott, Ford Willecox, Moss Dodds, Mark Wickett, Fred Lady, Ed Fox, John Fox, John Lady and Dr. Champion. Monday was spent by the marshal along the Cumberland river, and Tuesday along the Tennessee. He was accompanied by two soldiers all the way. They were on the lookout for four wounded men, one with a hole through his ear, one with a wound in his neck, and the others with body wounds. They found none.

FEDERAL COURTS TRIBUNALS THAT WILL HEAR CASES

St. Paul, Minn., March 23.—Minnesota's commodity rate law may not have been knocked out by the decision of the United States supreme court, according to E. E. Young, attorney-general, and Thomas D. O'Brien, special counsel for the state.

Even though the penalty feature of the law is declared unconstitutional, they say, the whole law is not necessarily invalid. It may still be enforced by mandamus proceedings, in which event a case to determine whether rates are confiscatory would be forced to trial on its merits, or very likely the railroads would be willing to bring a case now pending before Federal District Judge William Lochren to trial on its merits.

Nullifies Alabama's Suit.
Montgomery, Ala., March 25.—That the decision of the United States supreme court in the Minnesota railroad cases has a serious bearing on similar legislation in Alabama, and practically nullifies it is admitted in a statement given out by Attorney-General A. M. Gaher, who is prosecuting the Alabama cases.

Capital Architect.
Frankfort, Ky., March 25.—(Special.)—The governor vetoed the section of the capitol appropriation bill, which provided that Andrews must be retained as architect. It is understood Andrews will be retained, however, but under another contract.

Judge Returns.
Judge Reed returned to Paducah at noon today and expects to go back Friday to hear the grand jury's report. He stated this afternoon that the sending of Marshal Neel after the witnesses had the effect of bringing them into court promptly. Judge Reed believes that a majority of the whitecappers came from across the river in Lyon county. "I don't believe any of the night riders live in Marshall county with the exception of a few right in the immediate section where the trouble occurred," said Judge Reed.

Other parties who came in from Benton today say that the crowd summoned as witnesses are wearing sad expressions and seem to realize that they are in for it, if something does not turn up in their favor.

Night Riders Indicted.
Hopkinsville, Ky., March 25. (Special.)—Four indictments against alleged night riders were voted by the grand jury and another was returned today. Mat Gholson and Herman and Richard Crenshaw were indicted for participating in the raid on Hopkinsville, and two men, whose names are withheld, were indicted for night riding.

Petitions calling on Roosevelt to take a hand in Kentucky and enforce the provisions of the constitution guaranteeing "life, liberty and pursuit of happiness" are circulated throughout the state. When sufficient signatures are obtained the papers will be forwarded to Washington.

Letter Sender Guilty.
Hopkinsville, Ky., March 25.—(Special.)—Robert Wood, charged with sending intimidating letters through the mail signed "Night Riders," was found guilty this morning and sentenced to three months in jail and to pay a fine of $100.

Owenton, Ky., March 25.—(Special.)—Night riders quietly visited this town early this morning and fired three big warehouses. One known as the Equity had 150,000 pounds of tobacco, part of it pooled. The loss is $30,000. There was no other damage.

LET ME KILL THOSE DEADLY DIS- EASE GERMS BEFORE THEY KILL YOU

I Will Give a Course of Treatment Absolutely Free to the First One Thousand Persons Who Write Me, to Prove What I Can Do.

I PUT OXYGEN INTO YOUR STOMACH

To Purify Your Blood and Destroy the Germs of Disease That Prey Upon Your Life, I Put Artificial Nerve Force Into Your Nerves and Brain to Give You Strength and Power—I Treat You With My Marvelous Psy-Phy Treatment, Too, the Most Powerful Healing Agency Known to Man.

I HAVE CURED WHERE OTHERS FAILED

My Experience in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases Has Been Extensive and Varied—I Have Been in General Practice Since 1880, a United States Pension Examiner for a Number of Years, Health Officer and Member of Municipal Board of Health and President of County Medical Society.

I WILL GIVE YOU A COURSE OF TREATMENT

Without One Cent of Pay—All It Costs Is a Two-Cent Stamp—A Letter Dropped in the Mail Box Today Brings You This Wonderful Free Course of Treatment Tomorrow—It Is Truly Astonishing How Quickly and Surely This Remarkable Treatment Will Overcome Deep-Seated Kidney, Liver, Stomach and Lung Troubles and Other Dangerous Diseases—Let Me Give You the Proof Free.

My treatment is not a patent medicine, or a cure-all, but it is a treatment that will be prescribed especially for your particular case after a careful diagnosis of your condition. True it will contain oxygen to kill deadly germs that infest your blood and tissues. Oxygen is the life of your blood. It gives vitality to the red blood corpuscles, and fills you with vim and vigor, but it is death to bacteria and disease germs.

My treatment will contain artificial nerve force, which is the nearest approach to natural living nerve force that has ever been discovered. It is truly marvelous how this artificial nerve force takes the place of the natural nerve force, and gives you wonderful strength and power. My treatment will also contain special remedies carefully prescribed to suit your particular condition. I also use a marvelous Psy-Phy Force, which I believe is the most wonderful healing power known to man. This mighty unseen force of such tremendous potency is a Divine gift within the reach of all, and in years past people who accidentally stumbled on it and employed it were regarded as privileged by the Creator and their power was considered supernatural, because it could not be explained, and yet this great power, mighty as it is, is absolutely harmless, incapable of producing injury, a sleeping giant that requires but little effort to make it your slave. The fabled Genie of Aladdin's wonderful lamp possessed a power which I believe was scarcely greater than that which I can reveal to you.

Doctors in great universities of France and Germany have taken up the study of this mysterious force. Philosophers and metaphysicians have been compelled to admit that they cannot fathom its secrets. You may attribute it to rehabilitation of nerve force, re-establishment of vital magnetic energy, psychic power—or what you will—the fact remains that patients in utter despair have claimed that they have been restored to health by this wonderful treatment when all other things failed.

Mrs. N. W. Bowden, of New Bern, N. C., says: "One year ago I was in a dying condition. Three doctors had given me up to die. I tried Force of Life, and today I am a well woman. I thank God for the day that treatment was sent to me." Here is also a letter from Mrs. Hannah Peters, of Harrisburg, Pa.; you may read it for yourself. Mrs. Peters says: "I thank our Heavenly Father for guiding me to you, and for the good health you have restored to me. I would have been in my grave had it not been for you. Your treatment has certainly cured me completely." Then take the case of Mr. Hyatt. Here was a man who had gone from doctor to doctor; finally he decided to try Force of Life.

United States Commissioner Ridgeway, who spent over three months investigating Force of Life treatment, says in regard to Mr. Hyatt, that his case showed an instance of remarkable recovery—"Raised, as it were, from the grave." In my varied experience in treating chronic diseases I have had every opportunity to study various methods and kinds of treatment, and I can honestly and conscientiously tell you that I have never seen any treatment which I believe compares with the treatment which I am in position to offer you. I know this is a strong statement, but I do not feel that it is one word stronger than the absolute truth. I have held many positions of honor and trust, and I could not afford to make you a single promise that I am not in a position to fulfill, or to tell you anything which would be untrue. I do not ask you to send me one cent of money; merely write me giving your name and address, and stating the leading symptoms of your trouble, and your case will be diagnosed and I will prescribe for you a special course of treatment. I will send you this course of treatment without one cent of pay. There are absolutely no conditions attached to this offer. If your letter is received today your treatment will be sent tomorrow. This offer is good only to the first one thousand persons who write me. It will cost a great deal of money to give these free courses of treatment, but I want to prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality in this country that at last we have a treatment which is absolutely sure and certain in its effects. No matter what your disease: no matter what treatment you have tried I want you to write to me. If I think that I cannot cure you, I will frankly tell you so, but do not hesitate because your case has been pronounced hopeless in my hand a bundle of letters from people who say they have been restored to health by my treatment after doctors had given them up to die. If you wish to try my free course of treatment, I advise you to sit down and write me today. If you don't wish to try my treatment, write me anyway, and I will send you a thorough diagnosis of your case and explain to you in detail just what I think this treatment should do for you. I will also give you full information in regard to marvelous Psy-Phy Force, or if you wish I will send you a course of treatment absolutely free and let you take it under the direction of your own family physician; so that there may be absolutely no doubt as to the exact cause of the astonishing results which I feel positive it will produce. CURRENCY BILL IN THE SENATE

Was Given Practically Exclusive Right of Way.

LaFollette Continues His Speech on the Measure—Refuses to Give Consent.

ON ALDRICH BILL THURSDAY.

Washington, March 25.—The currency bill was practically given exclusive right of way in the senate yesterday until it was finally disposed of, by the announcement by Aldrich that he would move tomorrow to give it that status in the senate.

LaFollette concluded the third installment of his speech on the currency bill. He refused to give his assent to an agreement to vote on the Aldrich bill on Thursday next, saying he did not want to be foreclosed from a further presentation of his views. It was then that Aldrich stated he would ask the senate to take up the bill tomorrow and continue its consideration until vote should be reached.

A question brought out the statement by Aldrich to the effect that he hopes to see the creation of a joint commission of the senate and house authorized to consider permanent currency reform before congress adjourns.

Senators Kitteredge and Gamble, of South Dakota, locked horns on the floor today over the bill to create an additional land district in that state. The senior senator entered the chamber after Gable had called up the bill. Surprise was expressed by Kitteredge that the bill had been called, saying that as late as 11 o'clock today he had reached an agreement with his colleague that the measure should go over until such a time as a conference could be had with the senators from North Dakota with a view of including a portion of that state in the district. He protested that it is not fair for his colleague to put him in a position of objecting to the passage of the bill for the benefit of his state.

Gamble replied and said that he had talked with McCumber, of North Dakota since he had discussed the matter with his colleague and had learned that no member of the North Dakota delegation objected to the measure. He continued to press the bill for immediate consideration and it was passed over.

In the House. Determination to conduct a filibuster on all occasions where opportunity presented itself, in order to force the Republicans to act on the employers' liability bill and other measures deemed necessary of enactment was announced by Williams, of Mississippi, in the house during consideration of the agricultural bill.

He said he had waited to see some evidence of the intention to transact business, which the people were demanding, but, finding none, had reached the conclusion that the time was ripe to force the hand of the Republicans. The Democrats cheered the announcement.

General debate on the agricultural appropriation bill continued throughout the day, except for a brief time when Sulzer, of New York, by way of retaliation for the action of the house yesterday in eliminating from the record his speech of Saturday last, sought to have expunged some remarks of Dalzell of Pennsylvania, regarding the rules. In that, however, he was unsuccessful. Many Democrats

HAPPY OLD AGE

Most Likely to Follow Proper Eating.

As old age advances, we require less food to replace waste, and food that will not overtax the digestive organs, while supplying true nourishment.

Such an ideal food is found in Grape Nuts, made of whole wheat and barley by long-baking and action of distaste in the barley which changes the starch into sugar. The phosphates also, placed up under the bran-coat of the wheat, are included in Grape-Nuts, but left out of white flour. They are necessary to the building of brain and nerve cells.

"I have used Grape Nuts," writes an Iowa man, "for eight years and feel as good and am stronger than I was ten years ago. I am over 74 years old and attend to my business every day."

"Among my customers I meet a man every day who is 92 years old and attributes his good health to Grape-Nuts and Postum, which he has used for the last five years. He mixes Grape-Nuts with Postum and says they go fine together."

"For many years before I began to eat Grape-Nuts, I could not say that I enjoyed life or knew what it was to be able to say 'I am well.' I suffered greatly with constipation, now my habits are as regular as ever in my life."

"Whenever I make extra effort I depend on Grape-Nuts food and it just fills the bill. I can think and write a great deal easier."

"There's a reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in packages.

refrained from supporting his proposition.

Tribute to Bryan and Roosevelt. In the course of his concluding speech on finance, Senator LaFollette read several lists of eminent financiers to whom he accorded various degrees of power in the control of industries.

He concluded his speech with a strong appeal to "progressive men" in the senate to stand together and beat the Aldrich bill. He spoke of the activities of the president and Bryan in combating wrongdoing among high financiers, and accorded to each an honest desire to do the will of the people.

IMPROVE LAWNS

REQUEST OF CIVIC ASSOCIATIONS AND B. P. W.

Pledges Being Signed by Property Owners for the Year 1908.

The following petition has been prepared and distributed yesterday among the committee having the canvass in charge, and will be circulated at once in the residence portion of the city.

"The Paducah Forestry Association, Civic department of the Woman's club. High school alumni, park commissioners, board of public works and Commercial club, earnestly request the citizens of Paducah to plant trees on their lawns and decorate the same with grass and flowers, improve the grass plots on the streets in front thereof, and take down fencing from around front of said lots. This request is made with the view of further increasing the beauty of Paducah and stimulating the civic pride."

The pledge reads: "We, the undersigned, agree to the request contained in the above and pledge ourselves to make the improvements therein requested during the year 1908."

FRESH FISH

ARRIVING ON LOCAL MARKET, BUT PRICE REMAINS UP.

Boats Have Raised Price, So Local Dealers Claim, More Than Double.

Large quantities of fresh fish are being received by fish dealers in the city, although the price has not dropped a cent. Fish dealers say the boats have raised the price on carrying the barrels of fish, and the wharfbots have accommodated them with an increase on wharfage, and to make up the difference the customer has to pay the profit. Formerly the shipping expenses on a barrel of fish were about 35 cents and now the price will hit about 90 cents.

From Paducah to Carversville, about 40 miles above the city, the Paducah dealers derive their supply, and every boat brings in a supply of the finny tribe. The high water has interfered with fishing this year and at the beginning of Lent the dealers had to depend upon shipments from the dealers in large cities for the common grades, but only the more expensive fish come from the markets now. Catfish are selling for 20 cents pound, buffalo and perch are bringing from 10 to 12½ cents a pound.

IN METROPOLIS

FRUIT CROP IS UNINJURED SO FAR EXPERTS REPORT.

Peach, Pear and Plum Trees Are in Bloom But No One Fears Any Damage.

The fruit crop has not been injured by any frosts this early, according to the expressions from local marketmen. The yearly cry of the pessimists has gone up that the fruit harvest would be short, but those in a position to know declare that it is safe so far. Peach, pear and plum trees are in full bloom, but with the exception of a few early varieties, the apple trees have not come forth. "It's the April frosts that hurt," said Ed Duff, a marketer, this morning, "and I never have heard of a frost in March doing damage to the fruit crop." This year has had an early spring, and some of the marketers are winking at cold weather next month, but the weather prophets are mistaken some times.

BOCK BEER IS SURE SIGN THAT SPRING HAS COME.

Lovers of bock beer will smack their lips with satisfaction, for next Saturday the breweries announced that the dark brown beer will be flowing over the bars. However, several saloons in the city have secured a walkover, and have imported the beer from Nashville, and have not waited for the local breweries to open the tap. As usual the sale will continue several weeks, and it is safe to say that the demand will be as heavy as usual. More care is taken in the brewing of bock, and as it is always stronger it has a dark brown color, and does not require so much to satisfy the thirst of the drinkers.

MUCH IMPROVED IS SITUATION

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Makes Report Giving Comparative Figures.

CONCERNING THE OUTLOOK

Washington, D. C., March 25.—Every indication points to an improvement generally in the railroad and industrial situation of the country according to reports made by the great railway systems of America to the Interstate commerce commission. These reports are to the effect that, while the railroads suffered to some extent by what has come to be referred to as the "October panic," the loss was by no means so serious as generally has been supposed. It appears from the reports that the effect was felt particularly by the eastern lines and by the lines of the southeastern part of the country, a few of which were embarrassed not only by a falling off of revenues, but by their inability to obtain ready cash with which to carry on improvements which they had begun while the western lines and the trans-continental roads have not suffered materially from the financial depression. The figures available to the Interstate commerce commission indicate also that the general condition in the country improving materially, with a prospect that it soon will be normal or better.

Franklin K. Lane, Pacific coast member of the Interstate commerce commission, has made a careful analysis of the figures submitted by the railroads themselves to the commission. Mr. Lane was asked what loss the railroads of America had sustained from the "October panic." He replied that the railroad situation the country over is not imminently a serious one at the present time.

"There are no figures accessible by which a definite answer to your question can be given," continued Commissioner Lane. "From the figures available to the commission, however, it does not appear that taking the country as a whole, the revenues of the railroads have fallen off to the extent that generally is believed. The Interstate commerce commission now calls upon the carriers, subject to the act to regulate commerce for monthly reports of their revenues and operating expenses. Such reports began with the month of July last, and I have the figures compiled by Prof. Henry C. Adams, our statistician, as to a number of systems which may be taken as representative of the railroad systems of the entire country. These systems are:

New York New Haven and Hartford.
New York Central.
Baltimore and Ohio.
Pennsylvania, east and west of Pittsburgh.
Southern Railway.
Louisville and Nashville.
Rock Island.
Atchafalpa, Topeka and Santa Fe.
Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul.
Northwestern.
Southern Pacific.
Great Northern.
Northern Pacific.

"During the three months, July, August and September, the total operating revenues of these roads amounted to $399,000,000; for the same months of October, November and December the total revenue was $376,000,000. The freight revenues of the systems named were, for the first quarter, $264,000,000, and for the second quarter, $259,000,000.

The freight revenues for November were larger than those for July or September.

"Those systems during the last six months of 1907 received from passenger and freight revenues a grand total of $775,000,000, which is $54,000,000 more than they received for the same period in the preceding year 1906.

CIVIL STRIFE IS REPUBLIC'S CHIEF

through local riots against foreign subjects precipitates an issue that might result in war, capital might not feel the interest in the war necessary for success or to prevent defeat.

For our citizenship to array themselves into powerful organizations whose avowed objects are enmity against other organizations, and which educate themselves, each to think that the other is incapable of a worthy motive, presents a situation of national weakness that will doubtless make American statesmen go slow in our policies.

Of course, these divisions, being based on purely local questions, would be largely forgotten if war should come upon the country, and all forces in the nation would join in a common effort to save the national cause; for it is certain that what would be disastrous to one set of citizens from a war, would be disastrous to every other class. Yet we cannot deny that an internal state of chaos in the national mind, makes for an uncertain policy in external affairs. In the Spanish-American war the national spirit was ideal, for its motive engendered the sympathies of all citizens, and as long as the United States engages only in conflicts which contain such a motive, no fear need be felt from the chopped up state of public opinion. But let it engage in a war that did not engage the whole national sympathies, or which one great group of citizens condemned, and the antagonistic attitude of great bodies of citizens toward each other will be a source of fatal weakness.

Both Are Bitter.

Labor met in Washington last week to demand from congress legislation which it considers essential to its existence, and the sharp line between employee and employer was shown in this conference. At the same time employers have organized and are marshaling their forces for an aggressive war against organized labor. Both profess that each must survive to save the nation from calamity and each would look on anything the other did with suspicion and hostility. This program must be modified or the nation will be dangerously weakened through intestine broils.

Our civil strife usually is not marked by the appeal to force that distinguished Roman and Grecian affairs, but it is bitter, and it allowed to go undisciplined will certainly end in similar methods. When two bodies of American citizens become so bitter toward each other that they resort to the methods now in use in the Kentucky tobacco war, it is plain that a serious disintegrating movement is under way in the republic. Each time force is employed to settle a civil dispute, the nation is weakened at the foundation. Some other basis of settlement of civil disputes must be found if we would not travel the road that leads to the ruins of Rome and Greece.

There are certain elemental questions about which all American citizens could agree, and whose acknowledgement would save the nation from the enervating effect of the present chaotic conditions. Individual honesty is one, official and business integrity are others, and personal responsibility of conduct are points on which laborer and capitalist, producer, manufacturer and consumer, socialist and individualist and all citizens could unite. If these are insisted upon, civil disputes in the United States would be distinguished by calmness and reason that would immediately set a new standard in the world and at the same time give the nation a stability in its national relation not now possessed.

Just for Spite.

If labor wants to get on top of capital, or producer surmount manufacturer and consumer, merely to give them a dose of the medicine which they think they have been forced to take, what gain will result to the nation? In Rome plebeians and patricians alternately oppressed each other with unmerciful cruelty until the whole house went down. The ascendancy of different ideas and movements in the United States must be marked by an altogether different conduct and superior conduct to the idea it supercedes. If progress or benefit is to be assured, the abuses labor sees in capital, or capital sees in labor, must be carefully avoided by both when in power, if any good is to result from the sharp lines of demarcation in our citizenship.

We can secure all the benefits of a competition of ideas by being homogeneous in our desire to eradicate individual evils of character, and the public man who insists on righteousness conduct whether in the laborer or capitalist, individualist or socialist, is standing on a platform that will be supported by a big majority of American citizens. As long as this is true we will have a national spirit which at all times will present to foreign foes, a united front.

Minstrels Coming.

The rapid strides that Richards & Pringle's Famous Georgia minstrels have made puts them in the front ranks of the colored minstrel field.

They have a recognized standing as being in a class of their own, different from all others, but yet a minstrel show. Others with plenty of merit have been failures. Cause—A mistake in management. "A generous public did not crave for it." It is a funny proposition, to say the least, but it is a truth and people will continue to go and see the Georgia minstrels and the forty fun makers at the Kentucky March 30.

Daily Thought.

A man's age depends on the ideals he still cherishes.

Be sure The Sun will find you out.

King Emanuel might dub Senator Elkins just "Count de Boodle."

We trust Admiral Evans will not fail to leave his card everywhere we are indebted in the east.

It must be very exciting to live in a city like Louisville, surrounded by night riders.

If the presence of the American fleet will scare the Japs into the government's program for a big military appropriation, we shall do our part to enhance their national deficit.

Governor Patterson, of Tennessee, if not a good governor, at least, tries to be a good politician. He visited Clarksville to get a personal glimpse of the night rider situation. We recall also that when a vacancy occurred on the circuit bench recently in the Montgomery county circuit, the governor passed by the name of the attorney general, who fearlessly has been prosecuting night riders, and promoted another to the bench. Maybe Governor Patterson can fool the outside public by visiting Clarksville, and convince the night riders by ignoring the attorney general. At any rate, we are quite sure the governor of Tennessee has nothing to fear at the night riders' hands.

LET US BE AMERICANS.

National pride in achievement and capability seems sadly on the wane, thanks to the "opposition press." Do we observe conditions in India and Formosa and then in the Philippines and realize that our colonial policy is best; admit that we are a race superior to the Japs, and as a nation morally in advance of Great Britain? Let us regard the great Panama canal project as a national undertaking in which every citizen is to share the honor or the stigma, aid it instead of knocking, talk it up instead of running it down, and glory in our national prowess.

What a wonderful navy we have! Its remarkable achievement is the talk of the world. Are we not proud of such ships and men?

Our diplomacy is recognized as of the sterling, straightforward kind, that has put us in a dominant position in the far east and in the western hemisphere, but no one would learn it from the American press and public.

A great moral wave is sweeping this country that is exposing whatever corruption exists in the machinery of government and private enterprise. The fact that these things are being ruthlessly exposed is a proof of national character, and should be a matter of satisfaction to the American public, but is it?

We went to war with Spain for the cause of freedom in Cuba, and most honorably we acted our part. Haven't we self-respect enough to acknowledge our own virtues?

The truth is we underestimate our own character, and the pity is that other people will accept our estimate. Whoever heard of an Englishman denouncing his own government the way some little Americans do theirs?

Let us awaken to a realization of our national existence; let us look at conditions as Americans, jealous of our country's good name, proud of her record and vigilant as to her honor.

THE POLICE BILL.

It has never been our good fortune to inspect that formidable compilation of complex sentences, known as an amendment to the charter of second class cities, a bill to remove the police force from politics, which Governor Wilson denominates a wolf in sheep's clothing, a "partisan bill in non-partisan clothes," so we are willing to abide by the governor's opinion of it. He has studied it and we have not, though we tried ever so faithfully to find out, both before and after its passage, just what the substitute measure might be.

We understand that it was complicated and its ultra provisions for appeal clear to the court of appeals from the police commissioners' rulings in case of the discharge of an officer, not only protected a policeman from compulsory participation in partisan politics, but prevented the board from interfering with his activity, should the board wish him to keep out of politics.

From the governor's expression we judge that the title of the bill suggested a measure to remove the police force from politics when the real purpose of it was to permit a reduction of the police force, if desired. The original bill, simply repealing the charter provision for a minimum of 30 policemen, was clearly and honestly a measure restoring to second class cities their right of local self-government.

The satisfaction we derive from the situation, is that the bill the governor vetoed was not the original designed in Paducah, although it carried with it the provision we were seeking. However, the important thing was the license bill. We are sorry the police bill did not meet with the governor's approval; but if the bill was deceitful in its terms, the governor did right in vetoing it, and we are obliged to him for studying it.

THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE.

If, as Doc Bruner says, the federal officeholders of Kentucky are forcing Taft on the people, did the federal officeholders of Ohio, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Michigan, force Taft on the voters of those states? Wonderfully influential set of men those officeholders. Wonderfully impotent set of men the Republicans have elected to state offices. Bruner pays a debt of compliment to the federal administration, which has picked out such a strong, representative body of men to fill the offices at its disposal.

The trouble with Bruner and his ilk of lick spittle politicians, is that they think politicians are everything and the people nothing. Doc actually believes, in his little way, that a bunch of politicians can handle the great mass of voters anyhow they please, and where Taft appears strongest Doc immediately believes the federal officeholders are strongest.

THE MYSTERY

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE
And SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY McCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

"Well, I'll tell you, you swab! It's just two fathom from where you stand. Just two fathom! How long would it take you to walk there? How long? Just about six seconds! There and back! You— I won't bother with all the epithets, although by now I know Captain Selover's vocabulary fairly well. "And you couldn't take six seconds off to spit over the side! Couldn't walk two fathom! Had to spit on my quarter deck, did you?"

Rumble from the mate. "No, by God, you won't call up any of the crew. You'll get a swab and do it yourself! You'll get a hand swab and get down on your knees! I'll teach you to be lazy!"

The mate said something again.

"It don't matter if we ain't under way. That has nothing to do with it. The quarter deck is clean. If the waist ain't, and nobody but a son of a sea lawyer would spit on deck anyhow!"

From this Captain Selover went on into a good old fashioned deep sea "cussing out" to the great joy of the stevedores.

The mate stood it pretty well, but there comes a time when further talk is useless even in regard to a most heinous offense. And of course, as you know, the mate could hardly consider himself very seriously at fault. Why, the ship was not yet at sea and in all the clutter of charging. He began to answer back. In a moment it was a quarrel. Abruptly it was a fight. The mate, marked Selover beneath the left eye. The captain with beautiful simplicity crushed his antagonist in his gorilla-like squeeze, carried him to the side of the vessel and dropped him limp and beaten to the pier. And the mate was a good stout specimen of a seafarer too.

Then the captain rushed below, emerging after an instant with a chest which he flung after his subordinate. It was followed a moment later by a stream of small stuff—mingled with language—projected through an open porthole. This in turn ceased. The captain reappeared with a pall and brush, scrubbed feverishly at the offending spot, mopped it dry with that same old red bandanna handkerchief, glared about him and abruptly became as serene and placid as a noon calm. He took up the direction of the stevedores. It was all most astounding.

Nobody paid any attention to the mate. He looked toward the ship once or twice, thought better of it and began to pick up his effects, muttering savagely. In a moment or so he threw his chest aboard an outgoing truck and departed.

It was now nearly noon and I was just in the way of going for something to eat when I caught sight of another dray laden with boxes and crates affairs which I recognized as scientific apparatus. It was followed in quick succession by three others. Ignorant as I was of the requirements of a scientist, my common sense told me this could be no exploring outfit. I revised my first intention of going to the club and bought a sandwich or two at the corner coffee house. I don't know why, but even then the affair seemed big with mystery, with the portent of tragedy. Perhaps the smell of tar was in my nostrils and the sea called. It has always possessed for me an extraordinary allurements.

A little after 2 o'clock a cab drove to the after gangplank and stopped. From it alighted a young man of whom I shall later have occasion to tell you more, followed by Dr. Schermerhorn. The young man carried only a light leather "serviette," such as students use abroad, while the doctor fairly staggered under the weight of a

"Hello, doctor," he squeaked. "Here in good time. We're busy, you see. Let me carry your chest for you."

"No, no!" Dr. Schermerhorn fairly glared.

"It's almighty heavy," insisted the captain. "Let me give you a hand."

"You must not touch!" emphatically ordered the scientist. "Where is the cabin?"

He disappeared down the companionway clasping his precious load. The young man remained on deck to superintend the stowing of the scientific goods and the personal baggage.

All this time I had been thinking busily. I remembered distinctly one other instance when Dr. Schermerhorn had disappeared. He came back inscrutinably, but within a week his results on aerial photography were public property. I told myself that in the present instance his lavish use of money, the elaborate nature of his preparations, the evident secrecy of the expedition as evidenced by the fact that he had negotiated for the vessel only the day before setting sail, the importance of personal supervision as proved by the fact that he—notoriously impractical in practical matters and notoriously disliking anything to do with business—had conducted the affair himself instead of delegating it—why, gentlemen, don't you see that all this was more than enough to wake me up, body and soul? Suddenly I came to a definite resolution. Captain Selover had descended to the pier. I approached him.

"You need a mate," said I.

He looked me over.

"Perhaps," he admitted. "Where's your man?"

"Right here," said I.

His eyes widened a little. Otherwise he showed no sign of surprise. I cursed my clothes.

Fortunately I had my master's certificate with me—I'd passed fresh water on the great lakes. I always carry that sort of document on the chance that it may come handy. It changed to have a couple of naval endorsements, results of the late war.

"Look here," I said before I gave it to him. "You don't believe in me. My clothes are too good. That's all right. They're all I have that are good. I'm broke. I came down here wondering whether I'd better throw myself in the drink."

"You look like a duke," he squeaked.

"Where did you ever ship?"

I handed him my certificate. The endorsements from Admiral Keays and Captain Arnold impressed him. He stared at me again, and a gleam of cunning crept into his eyes.

"Nothing crooked about this?" he breathed softly.

I had the key to this side of his character. You remember I had overheard his night before his statement of his moral scruples. I said nothing, but looked knowing.

"What was it?" he murmured.

"Plain desertion or something worse?"

I remained inscrutable.

"Well," he conceded, "I do need a mate, and a naval man—even if he is wanted to get out of sight."

"He won't spit on your decks anyway," I broke in boldly.

Captain Selover's hairy face bristled about the mouth. This I subsequently discovered was symptom of a grin.

"You saw that, eh?" he breathed.

"Aren't you afraid he'll bring down the police and delay your sailing?" I asked.

He grinned again, with a cunning twinkle in his eye.

"You needn't worry. There ain't goin' to be any police. He had his advance money, and he won't risk it by tryin' to come back."

We came to an agreement. I professed surprise at the wages. The captain guardedly explained that the expedition was secret.

"What's our port?" I asked, to test him.

"Our papers are made out for Honolulu," he replied.

We adjourned to sign articles.

"By the way," said I, "I wish you wouldn't make them out in my own name. 'Eugen' will do."

"All right," he laughed. "I sabs. Eugen it is."

"I'll be aboard at 6," said I. "I've got to make some arrangements."

"Wish you could help with the lading," said he. "Still I can get along. Want any advance money?"

"No," I replied. Then I remembered that I was supposed to be broke.

"Yes," I amended.

"He gave me $10."

"I guess you'll show up," he said.

"Wouldn't do this to everybody. But a naval man—even if he is dodgin' Uncle Sam!"

"I'll be here," I assured him.

At that time I wore a pointed beard. This I shaved; also I was accustomed to use eyeglasses. The trouble was merely a slight astigmatism which bothered me only in reading or close inspection. I could get along perfectly well without glasses, so I discarded them. I had my hair cut rather close. When I had put on sea boots, blue trousers and shirt, a pea jacket and a cap I felt quite safe from the recognition of a man like Dr. Schermerhorn. In fact, as you shall see, I hardly spoke to him during all the voyage out.

Promptly at 6, then, I returned with a sea chest, bound I knew not whither, as he gone I knew not for how long and pledged to act as second officer on a little 150 ton schooner.

RAILROAD NOTES

Superintendent Harry M. Court, Chief Engineer H. R. Safford and other high officials of the Illinois Central, were here yesterday accompanied by Superintendent Egan and Roadmaster Blaess, of the Louisville division. After a conference with local officials the party left last night at 6:15 o'clock for Cairo. It is understood that the purpose of the trip to Cairo is to arrange for a new train schedule, under which the train leaving here at 6:15 p. m. will leave about one hour earlier in order that northern connections may be made.

The Paducah yards held more loaded cars this morning than at any time since the holidays and more switch engines and crews were at work getting out the big freight trains. The increase in traffic has had a cheering effect on the employees generally, as it means more work in every department.

A long train load of "company coal" was hauled into Paducah on the Illinois Central yesterday. The coal came from the western Kentucky mines and will be stored on sidetracks near Paducah to be used in case the miners go out on a strike and render it difficult to get the fuel from the mines. There were about 75 cars in the lot and it is said more will be brought during the next week.

If there was any more than the ordinary warmth in the usual smile of W. A. Flowers, the baggage agent at the Union Station, this morning, it could be attributed to the fact that a sweet little girl came to his house last night to brighten the joys of his home.

Some thief went the limit a few nights ago at the shops by chopping the copper couplings off a half dozen pieces of the hose belonging to the private fire department. New couplings have been fixed on the hose, but the officials are using every means to capture the bold culprit.

DIGS UP POT OF GOLD.

Charles H. Wells, of Mayfield, Ky., Digs Up $5,500.

Joseph Lagan, of Hickory, Ky., dropped into the Herald office last Friday and told the Herald of a remarkable find of an old-fashioned bean pot buried in the ground near Woodville, Ky. The pot contained $5,500, all in gold and silver, the gold pieces were five, ten, twenty and fifty dollar pieces, the silver pieces were dollars and halves. The find was made by a young man named Charles H. Wells on Tuesday of last week on the land of Mr. L. C. Meers, where J. L. Thurman was setting up a sawmill. Wells' home is at Mayfield, Ky., but he was raised near Murray, Ky. He had been employed by Mr. Thurman to level up a foundation for the mill and in doing so uncovered the pot of gold and silver. Aside from being slightly rusty and discolored by its long seclusion it is otherwise in good shape.

It is supposed that it might have been buried in this spot by an old miser who lived in the neighborhood long ago, but who has been dead for many years. He left no family nor any near relatives, so the money becomes the actual property of the finder, Mr. Wells.

Mr. Lagan says Wells is a thoroughly worthy, upright young man with no bad habits; he is exceptionally industrious, having had to work hard all of his life, however, he has put in his time well and as a consequence he has a host of friends who will all rejoice with him over his remarkable piece of good fortune.—Metropolis (Ill.) Herald.

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the make of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attests its correctness under oath, are daily given in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formula, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known, the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages, the medicine will do that yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hiccough-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption. Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" to time and it is not likely to disappoint you—it only gives it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefit. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

Johnson Denies Interview.

Says He Did Not Authorize Wellman to Make a Statement.

St. Paul, Minn., March 25.—In a special to the Chicago Record-Herald from here yesterday, Walter Wellman said Gov. Johnson had authorized him to announce that he was a candidate for president. Gov. Johnson this afternoon gave out the following denial: "I did not authorize Mr. Wellman."

St. Paul, Minn., March 25.—The growth of cigarette smoking in the British army is beginning to disquiet the higher officers whose reports indicate that the health of the men is being seriously impaired by indulgence in this practice. Lieut. Gen. Grenfell, commander-in-chief of the forces in Ireland, has just issued an order to the troops of his command, calling attention to the evils which must inevitably follow such excess and appealing for "earnest and early action to combat what is gradually but greatly affecting the efficiency of the men."

Harvard and Yale.

In times of athletic rivalry no sentiment expresses the thoughts of a Harvard man better than "To hell with Yale!" Dean Briggs, of the faculty, and the Rev. Edward Everett Hale, veteran clergyman and chaplain of the United States senate, once went down to Soldiers Field together at such a time.

"Where are you going, Dean?" asked a friend.

"To sell with Hale," answered the smiling Briggs, cynically and with diplomacy. March Lippincott's.

PRESERVE PEACE AT CLARKSVILLE WITH POSSE OF 40

Nashville, Tenn., March 25.—Col. Gracy Childers, who commanded the First Tennessee regiment in the Philippines during the Spanish-American war, will command a posse of forty men to be stationed in Clarksville for preservation of peace in Montgomery county, the heart of the "black tobacco patch." The necessary orders were issued today by Gov. Patterson, following a personal investigation of conditions in Montgomery county where Vaughn Bennett was recently found fatally wounded in the road way near the spot where a party of night riders, returning from a raid, had exchanged shots with unknown persons. Since this incident the situation has been tense. Gov. Patterson decided, however, that calling out the militia was not necessary. Col. Childers' posse will simply be held in readiness "in case of emergency to act with the sheriff and judge of the criminal court to preserve the public peace."

The posse will be recruited from members of the Clarksville military organizations.

Sustains the Railroads.
Jefferson City, Mo., March 25.—In reference to the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the Minnesota and North Carolina rate cases, Attorney-General Hadley said today:

"While the decision of the supreme court in these cases is principally based upon unreasonableness of the penalties prescribed by the Minnesota and North Carolina statutes, its effect is unquestionably to sustain the contention of the railroads. Whenever the railroads do not like a state law they can now have one of their officials make an affidavit that it would unreasonably reduce their earnings, and thereupon a United States circuit judge can suspend the operation of this law until it can be shown that the law is reasonable."

Cadiz, Ky., March 24.—It is generally believed here that the shooting of Tom Weaver, the Golden Pond negro, by the night riders was an accident. The riders, it is thought, simply intended to scare him, but their aim was a trifle too sure. There is no clue to the identity of the members of the mob.

Drunken Policeman Forces Men to Drink With Fatal Result.

Pittsburg, March 25.—Policeman David Lennox, while intoxicated today gathered about ten rounders and chased them into a saloon. Leaving up against the bar he said:

"You fellows never had enough whisky in your lives, but you are going to have your fill now. The fellow who does not drink ten whiskies now and two gins with a schooner, of beer to top it off with gets licked first and arrested later. I pay for everything."

The gang fell to in a hurry, fearing Lennox might change his mind. One by one they fell to the floor or reeled into a corner. Henry Thompson dropped like a shot as he raised his eighth glass to his lips and he died later in the patrol wagon on the way to the police station. There was a giant negro, however, who outdrank them all. His name is not known to the Passavant hospital people, where he is dying, but his record will stand for years. He drank fourteen glasses of whisky, but swooned on his fifteenth. Several other men are in hospitals in critical condition.

EMPEROR AS PENMAN.

William of Germany Draws Sketches on Margin of Letters.

Berlin, March 25.—Persons in close touch with the German emperor, referring to the incident of the letter to Lord Tweedmouth, state that his majesty is, despite his manifold duties, a prodigious penman.

A prominent artist with whom he constantly confers asserts that on some occasions letters he has received from his majesty have run into twelve and even sixteen pages, and this in spite of the fact that he habitually abbreviates lengthy words by leaving out some of the syllables. The sentences are usually short and crisp, leaving no chance of misinterpretation. Often marginal sketches are made by him to illustrate the meaning of what he desires to convey, and the letters sometimes present a remarkable appearance for this reason.

MORE CONCILIATORY.

Haytian Government Would Accelerate the Department.

Port Au Prince, March 25.—The attitude of the Haytian government is daily becoming more conciliatory, apparently with the intention of accelerating the departure of foreign warships from this port. Five officers of the last remaining prisoners among those arrested March 1, in connection with the alleged plot to attack the palace, were released this morning and restored to duty.

The government also has withdrawn its objection to the embarkation of refugees in foreign legations at Port Au Prince.

Hitherto the government declined to consider the question of their leaving the country on warships, and conditioned their freedom from arrest upon their pledge to return to their homes.

Henry, pastor of the Kentucky Avenue Presbyterian church. Mr. Clark's body was taken to Metropolis on the Cowling at noon for burial.

Dr. Wiley Got the Goods.
Not long ago Dr. Wiley, the government's pure-food expert, walked into a Washington cafe and took a seat. He evidently knew just what he wanted, for, waving aside the bill of fare the bowing waiter proffered, he said:

"Bring me a chicken pie—one of those little individual pies."

A few minutes later it was set before him, brown and hot, and, with a smile of anticipation he broke the crust to find just beneath a three-inch feather.

"Take this away!" he commanded. "What does it mean, anyway? Tell me that."

The waiter was evidently a man of resource, for he immediately leaned over and said as a confidential voice. "Why, A'll tell yo' sah. It's dis way: Yo' know dat Dr. Wiley been raisin' such er howl 'bout food not bein' what hit was claimed ter be, de cook des puts one chicken fudder in each one of dem pies to show ter folks dat dey's reccebin' de genuine article, sah."—Western Homemaker.

"Really," said the gentle critic, "I thought Hamlin acted very well last night, in spite of the fact that he was quite ill." "I think," replied the carping ditto, "that he acted well because of that fact. Being ill, you see, he was not himself."—Philadelphia Press.

FREAKS STAY IN CIRCUSES

Doing Away With Them in
New York Alone.

These "Freaks" Prefer to Be Called
"Prodigies"—How Barnum Started
the Business.

SOME HAVE MADE MUCH MONEY

Human prodigies who retired years ago with fame and the dollars of normal beings, says the New York Evening Post, may not proffer too much sympathy to their successor in the side-show. The circus freak is not to pass forever, as some have thought; it is merely to pass New York, which likes variety.

The fire-eater, the sword-swallower and the man whose diet consists of needles, will still arouse wonder and interest in other towns. There will be work for the telescope man, exhibitions of living pictures by the tattooed man, peculiar motions on the part of the expansionist and contractionist and dislocationist. Nor will the bearded lady, the lion-faced boy, the human pin-cushion, or the elastic skin man have to look for new fields of endeavor. And the jokesmith, he who has relied for inspiration upon the attenuated figure of the human skeleton, and the embonpoint of the fat girl, will be able to rewrite his quips, as of old.

Perhaps it is well, for these people, unfortunate as to looks and shut off from many pleasures, must care for themselves and live to the end. They are philosophical and accept their lot gracefully. Some even take a measure of pride in being unlike other people; not a few are able successfully to gauge their value as "attractions." All live in a world of their own, and do not mingle to any extent with the crowd. This is not because they are outcasts, but because too much intercourse with average humans would tend to destroy their usefulness as oddities.

Several men and women who spent years on the side-show platform are now living in affluence in various parts of the country. One so-called prodigy, Capt. A. V. Bates, who married Annie Swan, perhaps the largest woman ever exhibited, has a large stock farm in Ohio, and breeds draft horses. Two negro girls, who are joined together, accumulated a fortune as freaks and now own a ranch in Texas. Old Zyp the original "What is It?" is still alive, and so is Mrs. Tom Thumb.

Others might be named, though not all have succeeded in remaining prosperous. A freak's earning capacity naturally depends on his powers of attraction, and there are some who can command $200 or $300 a week, in addition to returns from the sale of their pictures. Last year, said a showman, a freak came here from Europe, and his bank account already amounts to $5,000. The showman said he could vouch for the sum, because the book was in his safe. This prodigy is an undoubted attraction, and if he continues to put away his cash he should have a handsome competence in a few years.

Living in the atmosphere of the dime museum or circus, freaks are not unaware of the advantages of free advertising. A few years ago, in London, some of them objected to the term freak, and said that the word prodigy was a more dignified appellation. The London newspapers swallowed the bait, the prodigies were urged by their managers to write letters of protest to the editors, and by the time the discussion ended it had found a place in the columns of continental newspapers, and had even extended by cable to this side of the Atlantic.

The first man to see possibilities in the exhibition of freaks was P. T. Barnum. Before the civil war he had them in his Ann Street Museum

PADUCAH CONVALESCENTS NEED VINOL

It Hastens Recovery By Creating Strength.

There is just one thing the matter with a person who has been sick—that is, weakness.

To all such people in Paducah we recommend our delicious cod liver preparation, Vinol, as the very best strength creator we have ever sold in our store.

Vinol strengthens the digestive organs, creates an appetite, promotes sound sleep, makes rich, red blood, and builds up a depleted system to health and vigor.

This is because Vinol contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal and strength creating elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, with the useless, nauseating oil eliminated and tonic iron added.

We return money to those who try Vinol and receive no benefit.—W. B. McPherson, Paducah, Ky.

—that famous repository of the real and unreal. His most conspicuous prodigy was Tom Thumb, who was an unqualified "success," both here and abroad. Annie Swan was another of his drawing-cards, and Chang, the Chinese giant also helped to fill the Barnum exchequer.

Finally Mr. Barnum formed his traveling museum of "giants and dwarfs"—the latter were not called midgets in those days—and sent it on the road. That was the beginning of circus side-shows. It was a success that brought imitators, and then dime museums sprang up like mushrooms in the large cities, and each had its aggregation of freaks, some genuine, some made up. Subsequently, Barnum's partner, Bailey, conceived the idea of gathering all the available freaks into a "congress of giants and midgets," and the evolution of freak-dom was complete.

Only one dime museum, at which real freaks are exhibited, exists in New York today; the other fell away years ago. Showmen say that New York has seen all the freaks that are worthy of exhibition, and although they can always get duplicates, the supply of "new and original" is practically nil.

INDIAN BATTLE

FOUGHT ON THE FARM OF JOHN
McELYA, NEAR MASSAC

Skeleton of Tall Indian and Tomahawk Dug Up—Other Relics Found.

A well preserved skeleton and tomahawk were uncovered by Mr. John McElya, a well known farmer near Massac yesterday, the bones being plowed up in an old field on Mr. McElya's farm. The frame was that of a man about six feet tall and was so well preserved that the grown-up relics could be gathered up and carried away. Mr. McElya's farm is believed to have been the scene of an Indian battle, as numerous relics have been found in that vicinity, a large arrowhead being found a few days ago by one of the surveyors for the Paducah Northern railroad.

HEAR OF SISTER'S DEATH
AT NASHVILLE TUESDAY.

Messrs. W. H. and V. G. Garner, the furniture dealers, received a telegram yesterday announcing the death of their sister, Mrs. Maude Tolbert, at Nashville. They left yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral.

It Does the Business.

Mr. E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Maine, says of Bucklen's Arnica Salve: "It does the business; I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for chapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind." 25c at all druggists.

"Lady," said Plodding Pete, "would you help a man dat's seen better days?"

After a generous meal she ventured to inquire: "When was it that you saw better days?"

"Last summer,"—Washington Star.

ORDINANCES

ORDERED PREPARED BY JOINT COMMITTEE OF COUNCIL.

Hack Fares, Milk Inspector's Fees, Street Work and Cigar Licenses Considered.

The ordinance committees of the boards of aldermen and councilmen met last night and instructed the city solicitor to prepare five new measures. One provides for concrete sidewalks on the east side of North Fifteenth street between Clay and Trimble streets. Another fixes the license to be paid by cigar manufacturers at $10.

The ordinance regulating the prices to be charged by veterinarians for inspecting cows was ordered prepared and brought in by April 6. The measure provides that not more than 50 cents can be charged for each head of cattle examined, where there are 10 or more in one herd. The other ordinances are the ones regulating moving picture shows and hack fares.

A Cure for Misery.

"I have found a cure for the misery malaria poison produces," says R. M. James, of Louisville, S. C. "It's called Electric Bitters, and comes in 50 cent bottles. It breaks up a case of chills or a bilious attack in almost no time, and it puts yellow jaundice clean out of commission." This great tonic medicine and blood purifier gives quick relief in all stomach, liver and kidney complaints and the misery of lame back. Sold under guarantee at all druggists.

Life is short at best, so don't waste any of it worrying over the affairs of other people.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

INSPECTED BY CHARLES HARRIS
LAST NIGHT.

Paducah Commandery Complimented
By Officer for Its Excellent Condition.

Almost the entire membership of the Paducah Commandery of the Knights Templar was present at the inspection last night conducted by Mr. Charles Harris, eminent commander of the Versailles lodge. The inspector was highly pleased with the condition of the organization and said it is one of the best in the state. Mr.
Miram Wilhoit, past eminent commander of the Versailles commandery, accompanied Mr. Harris.

DON'T COMPLAIN.

If your chest pains and you are unable to sleep because of a cough, buy a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup and you won't have any cough. Get a bottle now and that cough will not last long. A cure for all pulmonary diseases. Mrs. J. J. Galveston, Texas, writes: "I can't say enough for Ballard's Horehound Syrup. The relief it has given me is all that is necessary for me to say."

A Mammoth's Teeth.

Miners excavating near Starling made a very interesting prehistoric find in the remains of a mammoth in excellent state of preservation. So far, says a Lemberg correspondent of the Pad Mall Gazette, the portions dug out include two teeth, some six feet in length, but in five or six pieces;
jaw bones, parts of the vertebral column, and three or four yards of hide, upon which the hair is still fresh;
joints and other bones and one foot of the animal. The remarkable state of preservation in which the skeleton was found is attributed to the fact that the soil in the district is permeated with mineral oils, earth wax and natural gases.

elvers; or else in some other way the interests of the stockholders should may not be wholly redelivered to the Anti-Trust Law.

In addition to the reasons I have already urged on your attention, it has now become important that there should be an amendment of the antitrust law, because of the uncertainty
as to how this law affects combinations among labor men and farmers.
If the combination has any tendency to restrict interstate commerce. All of these combinations, if and while existing for and engaged in the promotion of innocent and proper purposes, should be recognized as legal.
As I have repeatedly pointed out, this anti-trust law was a most unwisely drawn statute. It was perhaps inevitable that in feeling after the right remedy the first attempts to provide such should be crude; and it was absolutely imperative that some legislation should be passed to control, in the interest of the public, the business use of the enormous aggregations of corporate wealth that are so marked a feature of the modern industrial world. But the present anti-trust law, in its construction and working,
has exemplified only too well the kind of legislation which, under the guise of being thorough-going, is drawn up in such sweeping form as to become either ineffective or else mischievous.

In the modern industrial world combinations are absolutely necessary; they are very necessary among business men, they are necessary among laboring men, they are becoming more and more necessary among farmers. Some of these combinations are, among the most powerful of all instruments for wrongdoing. Others offer the only effective way of meeting actual business needs. It is mischievous and unwholesome to keep upon the statute books unmodified a law, like the antitrust law, which, while in practice only partially effective against vicious combinations, has nevertheless in theory been construed so as sweepingly to prohibit every combination for the transaction of modern business.
Some real good has resulted from this law. But the time has come when it is imperative to modify it.
Such modification is urgently needed for the sake of the business men of the country, for the sake of the wage-workers, and for the sake of the farmers. The congress can not afford to leave it on the statute books in its present shape.

It has now become uncertain how far this law may involve all labor organizations and farmers' organizations, as well as all business organizations, in conflict with the law; or, if we secure literal compliance with the law, how far it may result in the destruction of the organizations necessary for the transaction of modern business, as well as of all labor organizations and farmers' organizations, completely check the wise movement for securing business co-operation among farmers, and put back half a century the progress of the movement for the betterment of labor.
A bill has been presented in the congress to remedy this situation. Some such measure as this bill is needed in the interest of all engaged in the industries which are essential to the country's well-being. I do not pretend to say the exact shape that the bill should take and the suggestions
I have to offer are tentative; and my views would apply equally to any other measure which would achieve the desired end. Bearing this in mind, I would suggest, merely tentatively, the following changes in the law:

The substantive part of the antitrust law should remain as at present;
that is, every contract in restraint of trade or commerce among the several states or with foreign nations should continue to be declared illegal; provided, however, that some proper governmental authority (such as the commission of corporations acting under the secretary of commerce and labor) be allowed to pass on any such contracts. Probably the best method of providing for this would be to enact that any contract, subject to the prohibition contained in the anti-trust law, into which it was desired to enter, might be filed with the bureau of corporations or other appropriate executive body. This would provide publicity. Within, say, sixty days of the filing—which period
could be extended by order of the department whenever for any reason it did not give the department sufficient time for a thorough examination—the executive department having power might forbid the contract, which would then, become subject to the provisions of the anti-trust law,
if at all in restraint of trade.

If no such prohibition was issued,
the contract would then only be liable to attack on the ground that it constituted an unreasonable restraint of trade. Whenever the period of filing had passed without any such prohibition, the contracts or combinations could be disapproved or forbidden only after notice and hearing with a reasonable provision for summary review on appeal by the courts. Labor

TWICE-TOLD TESTIMONY. Paducah People Are Doing All They Can for Fellow Sufferers.

Paducah testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Paducah who suffer from bad backs and kidney ills. Lest any sufferer doubt that the cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills are thorough and lasting, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Paducah people saying that the cures they told of years ago were permanent. Here's a Paducah case:

J. W. Wootan, retired, of 1403
Burnett street, Paducah, Ky., says:
"About seven years ago I gave a statement for publication telling of the great merits of Doan's Kidney Pills and what they had done for me after other remedies had failed to even help me. I was at that time a sufferer from backache and kidney trouble of years standing. My rest at night was greatly broken and my health was greatly run down. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured them at DuBois & Co's drug store. I took them as directed and was greatly benefited. This was seven years ago and at this time, February 18, 1907, I think even more highly of this remedy than I did then, as it has stood the test. I most heartily endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."

organizations, farmers' organizations,
and other organizations not organized for purpose of profit, should be allowed to register under the law by giving the location of the head office, the charter and by-laws, and the names and addresses of their principal officers. In the interest of all these organizations—business, labor and farmers' organizations alike—the present provision permitting the recovery of threefold damages should be abolished, and as a substitute therefor the right of recovery allowed for should be only the damages sustained by the plaintiff and the cost of suit, including a reasonable attorney's fee.

The law should not affect pending suits; a short statute of limitations should be provided, so far as the past is concerned, not to exceed a year.
Moreover, and even more in the interest of labor than of business combinations, all such suits brought for causes of action heretofore occurred should be brought only if the contract or combination complained of was unfair or unreasonable. It may be well to remember that all of the suits hitherto brought by the government under the anti-trust law have been in cases where the combination or contract was in fact unfair, unreasonable, and against the public interest.

Strikes Legal.

It is important that we should encourage trade agreements between employer and employee where they are just and fair. A strike is a clumsy weapon for righting wrongs done to labor, and we should extend, so far as possible, the progress of conciliation and arbitration as a substitute for strikes. Moreover, violence, disorder, and coercion, when committed in connection with strikes, should be as promptly and as sternly repressed
as when committed in any other connection. But strikes themselves are,
and should be, recognized to be entirely legal. Combinations of workingmen have a peculiar reason for their existence. The very wealthy individual employer, and still more the very wealthy corporation, stand at an enormous advantage when compared to the individual workingman;
and while there are many cases where it may not be necessary for laborers to form a union, in many other cases it is indispensable, for otherwise the thousands of small units, the thousands of individual workingmen, will be left helpless in their dealings with the one big unit,

the big individual or corporate employer.

Twenty-two years ago, by the act of June 29, 1886, trades unions were recognized by law, and the right of laboring people to combine for all lawful purposes was formerly recognized, this right including combination for mutual protection and benefits, the regulation of wages, hours, and conditions of labor, and the protection of the individual rights of the working men in the prosecution of their trade or trades; and in the act of June 1, 1898, strikes were recognized as legal in the same provision that forbade participation in or instigation of force or violence against persons or property, or the attempt to prevent others from working, by violence, threat, or intimidation. The business man must be protected in person and property, and so must the farmer and the wageworker; and as regards all alike, the right of peaceful combination for all lawful purposes should be explicitly recognized.

The right of employers to combine and contract with one another and with their employees should be explicitly recognized; and so should the right of the employees to combine and to contract with one another and with the employers, and to seek peaceably to persuade others to accept their views, and to strike for the purpose of peaceably obtaining from employers satisfactory terms for their labor.
Nothing should be done to legalize either a blacklist or a boycott that would be illegal at common law;
this being the type of boycott defined and condemned by the antitrust strike commission.

Financial Legislation.

The question of financial legislation is now receiving such attention in both houses that we have a right to expect action before the close of the session. It is urgently necessary that there should be such action.
Moreover, action should be taken to establish postal savings banks. These postal savings banks are imperatively needed for the benefit of the wage-workers and men of small means, and will be a valuable adjunct to our whole financial system.

The time has come when we should prepare for a revision of the tariff.
This should be, and indeed must be, preceded by careful investigation. It is peculiarly the province of the congress and not of the president, and indeed peculiarly the province of the house of representatives, to originate a tariff bill and to determine upon its terms; and this I fully realize. Yet it seems to me that before the close of this session provision should be made for collecting full material which will enable the congress elected next fall to act immediately after it comes into existence. This would necessitate some action by the congress at its present session, perhaps in the shape of directing the proper committee to gather the necessary information, both through the committee itself and through government agents who should report to the committee and should lay before it the facts which would permit it to act with prompt and intelligent fairness. These government agents, if it is not deemed wise to appoint individuals from outside the public service, might with advantage be members of the executive departments, designated by the president, on his own motion or on the request of the committee, to act with it.
I am of the opinion, however, that one change in the tariff could with advantage be made forthwith. Our forests need every protection, and one method of protecting them would be to put upon the free list wood pulp, with a corresponding reduction upon paper made from wood pulp, when they come from any country that does not put an export duty upon them.
Ample provision should be made

ROAD WORK

U. S. OFFICE OF PUBLIC ROADS TELLS OF MODEL EARTH ROAD.

The Plow, the Drag Scraper, the Road Grader and the Split Log Drag Constant Friend.

While American road builders are capable of constructing good roads, those of any country of the old world, they have not been as loyally supported as the men of those countries in maintaining the highways after completion, and the deplorable state of many hundred thousand miles of road is thus accounted for. County and township officials may at the outset stand the expense of having a road built, but they strenuously object when asked to provide funds to rebuild the road that has been allowed to go to ruin.

It is important that farmers learn of the benefits to be derived from good earth roads; that county boards be impressed with the need of a proper maintenance of the same, and that road builders and overseers learn how best to care for the roads in their charge.

The persistent and powerful enemies of earth roads are water and narrow tires, and the constant effort of the men in charge of the roads should be to guard against their destructive effects and remedy all damage as quickly as possible. The simple implements which have been found to be of greatest assistance in this work are the plow, the drag scraper, the wheel scraper, the road grader, and the split-log drag.

With a sandy soil and a sub-soil of clay, or clay and gravel, deep plowing so as to raise and mix the clay with the surface soil and sand soil will prove beneficial. The combination forms a sand-clay road at a trifling expense. On the other hand, if the road be entirely of sand a mistake will be made if it is plowed unless clay can be added. Such plowing would merely deepen the sand, and at the same time break up the small amount of hard surface material which may have formed. If the sub-soil is clay and the surface scant in sand or gravel, plowing should not be resorted to, as it would result in a clay surface rather than one of sand or gravel. A road-foreman must know not only what to plow and what not to plow, but how and when to plow. If the road is of the kind which according to the above instructions should be plowed over its whole width, the best method is to run the first furrow in the middle of the road, and work out to the sides, thus forming a crown. Results from such plowing are greatest in the spring or early summer.

In ditches a plow can be used to good advantage, but should be followed by a scraper or grader. To make wide, deep ditches nothing better than the ordinary drag scraper has yet been devised. For hauls under 100 feet, or in making "fills" it is especially serviceable. It is a mistake, however, to attempt to handle long haul material with this scraper, as the wheel scraper is better adapted to such work. For hauls of more than 300 feet a wagon should be used.

The machine most generally used in road work is the grader, or road machine. This machine is especially useful in smoothing and crowning the road and in opening ditches. A clay sub-soil under a thin coating of soil should not be disturbed with a grader.

It is also a mistake to use a grader indiscriminately and to pull material from ditches upon a sand-clay road. Not infrequently turf, soil and silt from ditch bottoms are piled in the middle of the road in a ridge, making mud holes a certainty. It is important in using a grader to avoid building up the road too much at one time. A road gradually built up by frequent use of the grader will last better than if completed at one operation. The foreman frequently thinks his road must be high in the first instance. He piles up material from 10 inches to a foot in depth only to learn, with the arrival of the first rain, that he has furnished the material for as many inches of mud. All material should be brought up in thin layers, each layer well puddled and firmly packed by roller or traffic before the next is added. A common mistake is to crown too high with the road machine on a narrow road.

The split-log drag should be used to fill in ruts and smooth the road when not too badly washed. The drag possesses great merit and is so simple in construction and operation that every farmer should have one. A special article will be published later telling how to make use of the drag.

Stereotyper Does Needlework.

A horny-handed man who spends a large part of his time in the high-temperature confines of the stereotyping department of a daily newspaper would hardly be expected to be an adept at fancy needlework, but Joe Gordon, an employee of the Journal, is a versatile genius of this very type. Gordon's latest creation is the cover of a sofa pillow, upon which he has designed, in a raised figure, the picture of a Teddy bear. The design is constructed of Teddy bear yarn and is made by the skillful operation of a tufting needle. Thousands of feet of yarn were used in order to properly raise the figure above the base, which is of very fine velvet, and the actual time in which Gordon was employed was twelve hours. —Kansas City Journal.

"Now Tommy," said Mrs. Bull: "I want you to be good while I'm out."

"I'll be good for a nickel," replied Tommy.

"Tommy," she said, "I want you to remember that you cannot be a son of mine unless you are good for nothing." —Louisville Courier-Journal.

"King Solomon's Mines" netted $5,000 on its first sale.

SALOME

Or the Dance of Seven Veils

Spectacular! Religious! Sensational!

FOUR GREAT SCENES

Scene I—John the Baptist denounces Herod and his court. Scene II—John the Baptist rebukes Herodias for her life of pleasure and love of luxury. Scene III—Herodias pleads for the head of John the Baptist. Scene IV—Salome dances before Herod and obtains the head of John on a charger.

Salome is a picture founded on fact, and centers around one of those powerful dramatic and tragic incidents which abound in Biblical history

In connection with "Salome" Pathe's "Picturesque Jerusalem" will be exhibited, making all told a comprehensive and educational feature of a Religio-Biblical subject.
